

A rotation, not a relocation.

What La Clinique Swiss is, what a rotation involves, what the residence covers, and what is signed — on one page, so that you can decide, or send it to a colleague.

What this is

A community of Swiss and Swiss-trained physicians, residents and medical students built around preventive medicine and longevity. We measure the same members the same way every year (thirty-one markers), write a plan for the year ahead, and repeat — for decades. More than 80% of the clinical team practising under our name is Swiss or trained at the Swiss faculties. We are not a hospital, not a spa, and we sell nothing to members on the way out.

The rotation

- One or more weeks a year at a partner residence, around your practice at home. You choose the weeks with us a year ahead.
- Your own members, followed year after year: the annual assessment, the written plan, a quarterly video check-in.
- Work to one written protocol, reviewed yearly by the community's faculty against the literature.
- Residents and students rotate under supervision and hold a research role in the longitudinal data, with authorship.

What the residence covers

- Travel to and from the residence, accommodation and board for the rotation.
- The clinical room, equipment, consumables and nursing support to our brief.
- Local permissions for the clinical activity on its premises, confirmed in writing before any rotation.

What is signed

- Membership of the community — the ten clinical principles, the data agreement, and the commitment to be named with your credentials in the members' dossier.
- A rotation agreement with the residence — dates, what is covered, local terms. Separate from the community; nothing is signed with a residence until you have seen it.

What is not

- No employment, no exclusivity, no non-compete. You keep your practice.
- No obligation beyond the weeks you agreed, and no penalty for stepping back with notice.
- No product to sell, no commission, no target.

The process

- Apply at lacliniqueswiss.com/physicians — ten minutes, a CV if you have it to hand.
- A founding physician reads every application in the first week of the month.
- A twenty-minute conversation on video within two weeks of the review.
- A decision in writing within a month of the conversation, with the reason if it is no.

Your data

Your application is read by physicians of the community and by no one else. Nothing is shared with a residence without your written agreement. One email withdraws it.

We look forward to reading your application.
